tutions under which men have the greatest safety of person and property, the greatest freedom of belief and expression that have yet been found attainable under organized government, and of being disposed to seek changes in those institutions and in that government only by means of his power of persuasion and his ballot.

"Men who desire to alter our government or interfere with its processes by use of the bomb, by assassination, by threats, by terrorizing courts, juries, legislatures or executives, have no place among us. But we welcome into citizenship the honest, the industrious and all who will join with us in making better our government, in making more humane our laws, and in making more effective our liberty."

In the United States court sentence of Mattie Gwin Lemons, convicted of forgery, set for yesterday, was again postponed until the first Monday in November, and the second case against the defendant was set for the same day.

Gila Valley Honey

When a car of hay from Safford for Barclay, Higdon & Co. was opened in the railroad yard the other day, a swarm of bees was found hanging just inside the door. The car was then opened on the other side and another swarm was found working with their proverbial industry. The bees had stored about twenty pounds of honey to help pay the freight. This is the first instance of a shipment made on the G. V. G. & N. where the company got the worst of it on charges.
